Designs for a good cause

About

This book will showcase documents including brochures, leaflets, flyers and booklets that have been designed for the charity, academic, arts or culture sector. We will feature documents that have been designed with the environment in mind and/or have unique folding and printing solutions.

The author

EMMI is a graphic design practise, based in East London. Set up by Emmi Salonen in 2005, the studio specializes in designs for the art, culture, commerce, academia and organisations, using environmentally sound solutions whenever possible. Emmi has previously designed four design titles, including interior achitecture, animation and product design.

The publisher

Index Book is a Barcelona-based publishing house with an international approach specialized in graphic design and visual communication books, including its own editions, co-editions and imported titles. Subject matters include packaging, illustration, corporate identity, logos, fashion, interiors, photography, interactive design, typography, advertising, professional guidance, industrial design, urban art, lettering, retail or stationery, among many others.
